FOOD FOR THOUGHT

YRO are called to a relevant military role due to their civilian capacities as much conflicts have to adapt to “the new level of the Fight”

In a Multipolar World, with significant threads and changes:

- Disruptive Technologies (AI, Cognitive Computation, Blockchain, IoT, Big Data Analysis, robots, cyber, space activities etc.)
- Climate change and migrations
- Populism
- Massive Destruction Weapons

MORNING SESSION

Welcoming Remarks and Strategic Context

CIOR President Welcome:

Colonel Chris Argent

Opening address:

General Sir James Everard– UK

Deputy Supreme Allied Commander Europe

MORNING SESSION

SESSION 1: Do millennials officers need to be different from the old ones?

“Role of the reservist as twice the citizen: can reservists bring additional value to NATO Enhanced Forward Presence”

Boosting NATO’s presence in the Eastern Parts of Alliance territory, ensuring protection to populations against threats from wherever they arise.

Speaker: Major General Steve Potter (UK)

“The Millennial Generation and National Defense: Attitudes of Future Military and Civilian Leaders”

Portraying a generation influenced by how 9/11 has narrowed the civilian-military divide and entered a new era of civil-military relations.

Do people in service look at the world differently than people who do not volunteer to serve in the military?

Speaker: Professor Morten G.Ender (USA)

Professor of Sociology in Behavioural Sciences USA Military Ac.
West Point

MORNING SESSION

SESSION 2 “Millennials and new challenges”

“Cyber Threats and Crisis escalation Case Studies”

Cyberspace has transformed human interaction and the functioning of our society as public services depend on it. Cyberspace has become a political and military battleground. Violations in the cyberspace are increasing. Cyber attacks are launched by individuals and groups whose activity is too often supported and directed by states. Closer case studies include 2007 cyber attack campaign in Estonia”

Speaker: Merle Maigre – Estonia

Former Director of the NATO Cooperative Cyber Defence Centre of Excellence.

“Young Reserve Officers cultural awareness in the context of military deployments”

“Combining civil education and job with military work : Shaping an operation in a modern warfare concept”

❑ 1st LT RONNY B. VOSSEN – Denmark

Reserve staff officer within NATO Multinational Division North (HQ Riga) working primarily with Public Affairs and Information Operations

AFTERNOON SESSION

SESSION 3 “The Hybrid war and the reality of today's conflicts”

“The Hybrid warfield after 2014”

Russian Connection of Crimea and following operations in Eastern Ukraine has already become classical example of hybrid warfare. During following years Russia has avoided bigger direct confrontations with Western powers, but its official doctrinal documents witness continuing revanchist attitudes. It is obvious that Russia is taking very seriously shaping operations to clear road for their political aspirations.

Speaker: Mr. Raul Rebane – Estonia
Journalist Communication Consultant and Strategic Adviser

“The reality of today's armed conflict”

The difference between the past Cold War and now is in the automatization and autonimisation of war. If the fast and powerful missiles are coming back, then it means that countermeasures include more robots who are faster and smarter than human soldiers. What skills are required from future reserve leaders what we need to consider today?

Speaker: General Riho Terras - Estonia
Former Commander of the Estonian Defence Forces.

MODERATOR

Captain Ilmar Raag
Estonian Media Executive

Ilmar Raag (born 21 May 1968) is an Estonian media executive, actor, screenwriter and film director, best known for his socio-critical film. He has served as CEO of Estonian Television ^[3] from 2002 to 2005. He is a well known columnist in many prestigious Estonian newspapers (Postimees, Eesti Päevaleht). In recent years he has written many scripts and directed critically acclaimed films, notably August 1991 and The Class.

SPEAKER

General Sir James Everard
DSCACEUR

General Sir James Everard was born on 23 September 1962 in Leicestershire. He commissioned into the 17th/21st Lancers in 1983 and spent his formative years in the British Army on the Rhine (BAOR), on the Chieftain & Challenger Main Battle Tank (MBT), and the Combat Vehicle Reconnaissance Tracked (CVR(T)) Scorpion. He served as a Captain at the US National Training Centre (NTC) and Ministry of Defence (MOD). He deployed to Kosovo as part of Kosovo Force (KFOR) for the implementation of Operation JOINT GUARDIAN. From 2000-2002 he commanded the Queen's Royal Lancers in Germany. After two-years at the UK Permanent Joint Headquarters as Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff J5, responsible for Iraq and Afghanistan. This was followed in 2005 by a six-month deployment to the Pentagon as the UK Chief of Defence Staff Liaison Officer to the Chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff. He then commanded the 20th Armoured Brigade in Paderborn, Germany, taking the Brigade to Iraq in 2006. After a period as the Assistant Chief of Staff (Commitments) at Headquarters Land Forces he moved to command the UK 3rd Division between 2009-2011 responsible for the preparation of UK brigades deploying to Afghanistan. He then served between 2011 – 2013 as the Assistant Chief of the General Staff in the Ministry of Defence. In 2014 he left the MOD to become Commander Field Army. He moved to the post of Deputy Supreme Allied Commander Europe in March 2017.

SPEAKER

Major General General Steve Potter (UK)

Major General Stephen Potter commissioned into Cardiff University Officers Training Corps before joining the Territorial Army. His early career was served with 31 Signal Regiment, including command of an independent Radio Relay Troop in Cobham as part of 83 Signal Squadron. He commanded 47 (Middlesex Yeomanry) Signal Squadron, and was subsequently selected to Command 35 Signal Regiment; the first TA CO of a Ptarmigan equipped Royal Signals Regiment.

Major General Potter served as the Deputy Commander of 11 Signal Brigade before being appointed as the first Commander of 12 Signal Group (V) in 2004. In 2006, he was appointed as Deputy Commander 143 (WM) Brigade. In 2012, he attended the Royal College of Defence Studies and was concurrently posted to the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst as Colonel TA Training. After only ten months in the role, he was promoted to Brigadier as Assistant Commander Support Command in Aldershot. Following the Army Command Review, he became the first Assistant Commander Home Command. He assumed his current role as Director Reserves in the Army HQ in October 2018.

In civilian life, Major General Potter is a Chartered Surveyor and has worked in a variety of senior management and consultancy roles across both the Financial Services and BPO Sectors. He was Group Services Director (Main Board) at Paragon Finance plc (a FTSE 350 business) and Property Director at the West Bromwich Building Society (Main Board). He lives in a rural area on the Devon/Somerset border in an 800-year-old farmhouse with his wife and 15-year-old daughter (his 27-year-old actor son has fled the coop). He tries to spend his time cycling, walking, and sailing but is invariably hampered by his wife's horses, an irascible Terrier, and the inevitable DIY.
